

providing local businesses and the construction industry with potential employees who have obtained a level of knowledge that will enable them to work safely and productively on any building and construction site. And in so doing, it promotes the idea that individual and group circumstances can be changed to achieve positive outcomes.